Total Football has a website.

Everything the channel has been posting, written out and laid flat so you can actually read it.

TOTALFOOTBALL.NAURRA.AI

The library

Every system, on the board.

Not a clip with an arrow on it. The whole shape, drawn to scale.

How a page reads

One question. Then every phase.

How does a back four defend?

- 01 The shape before anything happens
 - 02 The ball goes wide: pressure, cover, balance
 - 03 The ball comes inside: the jobs hand over
 - 04 The line slides, and no gap opens
 - 05 The switch: the moment it is decided
 - 06 Same shape, other side

Grouped so you can find it

Four ways to look.

Defending

Lines, distances, who is responsible

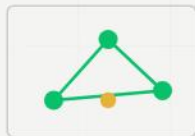

Build-up

Out from your own goal without losing it

Pressing

Triggers and traps

Attacking

Space against a set defence

Early access

Want to make these yourself?

The whole pipeline is becoming a course. The board engine, the choreography, and the pacing rules that came out of measuring 88 published shorts.
